"All the world's a stage"

observed the Bard of Avon centuries ago. For our record of a year at East High School we focus on one small stage of that world as we present "The Trojan Story." This drama has its humor and its tragedy, its rising action and audience applause.

We've had fun living our high school roles; we hope our readers, too, will have fun as our actors and scenes pass in review on these pages.

Memorable Scenes

● Orange and black decorations featuring "Victory" spark Trojan enthusiasm for the Fort Dodge homecoming game.

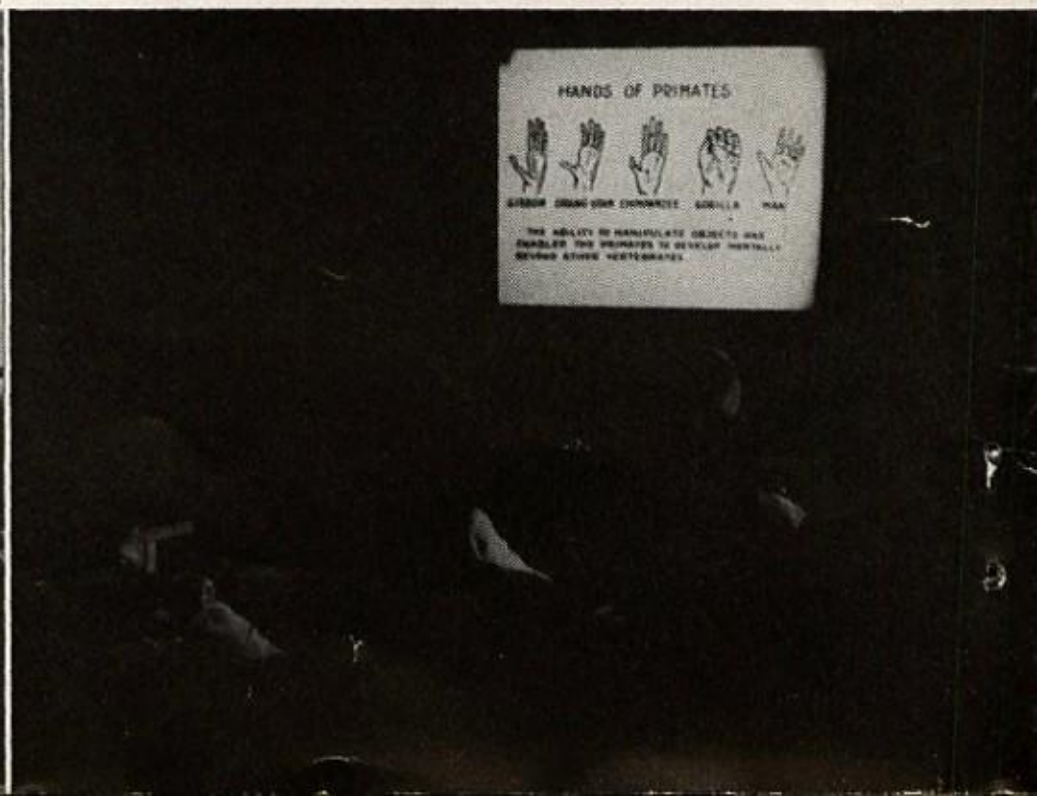
● Art students create mood pictures for Christmas holidays as one of many projects in helping students look ahead.

● The band takes a J L formation to honor Jack M. Logan, superintendent of schools.

● College-bound scientists concentrate to score top honors in the initial slide rule derby.

● School patrons as well as students look forward to the annual "Nativity."

● Biology students find visual aids interesting supplements to textbooks.



in "The Trojan Story"

● Printers not only get training in skills of their trade, but also produce printed material for the schools.

● Construction began this year on an addition to the annex which will include new homemaking and art departments.

● A Geiger counter and a radioactive rat fascinate the curious following an auditorium on cancer.

● East-West clashes bring a large crowd of loyal fans to the Waterloo Auditorium.

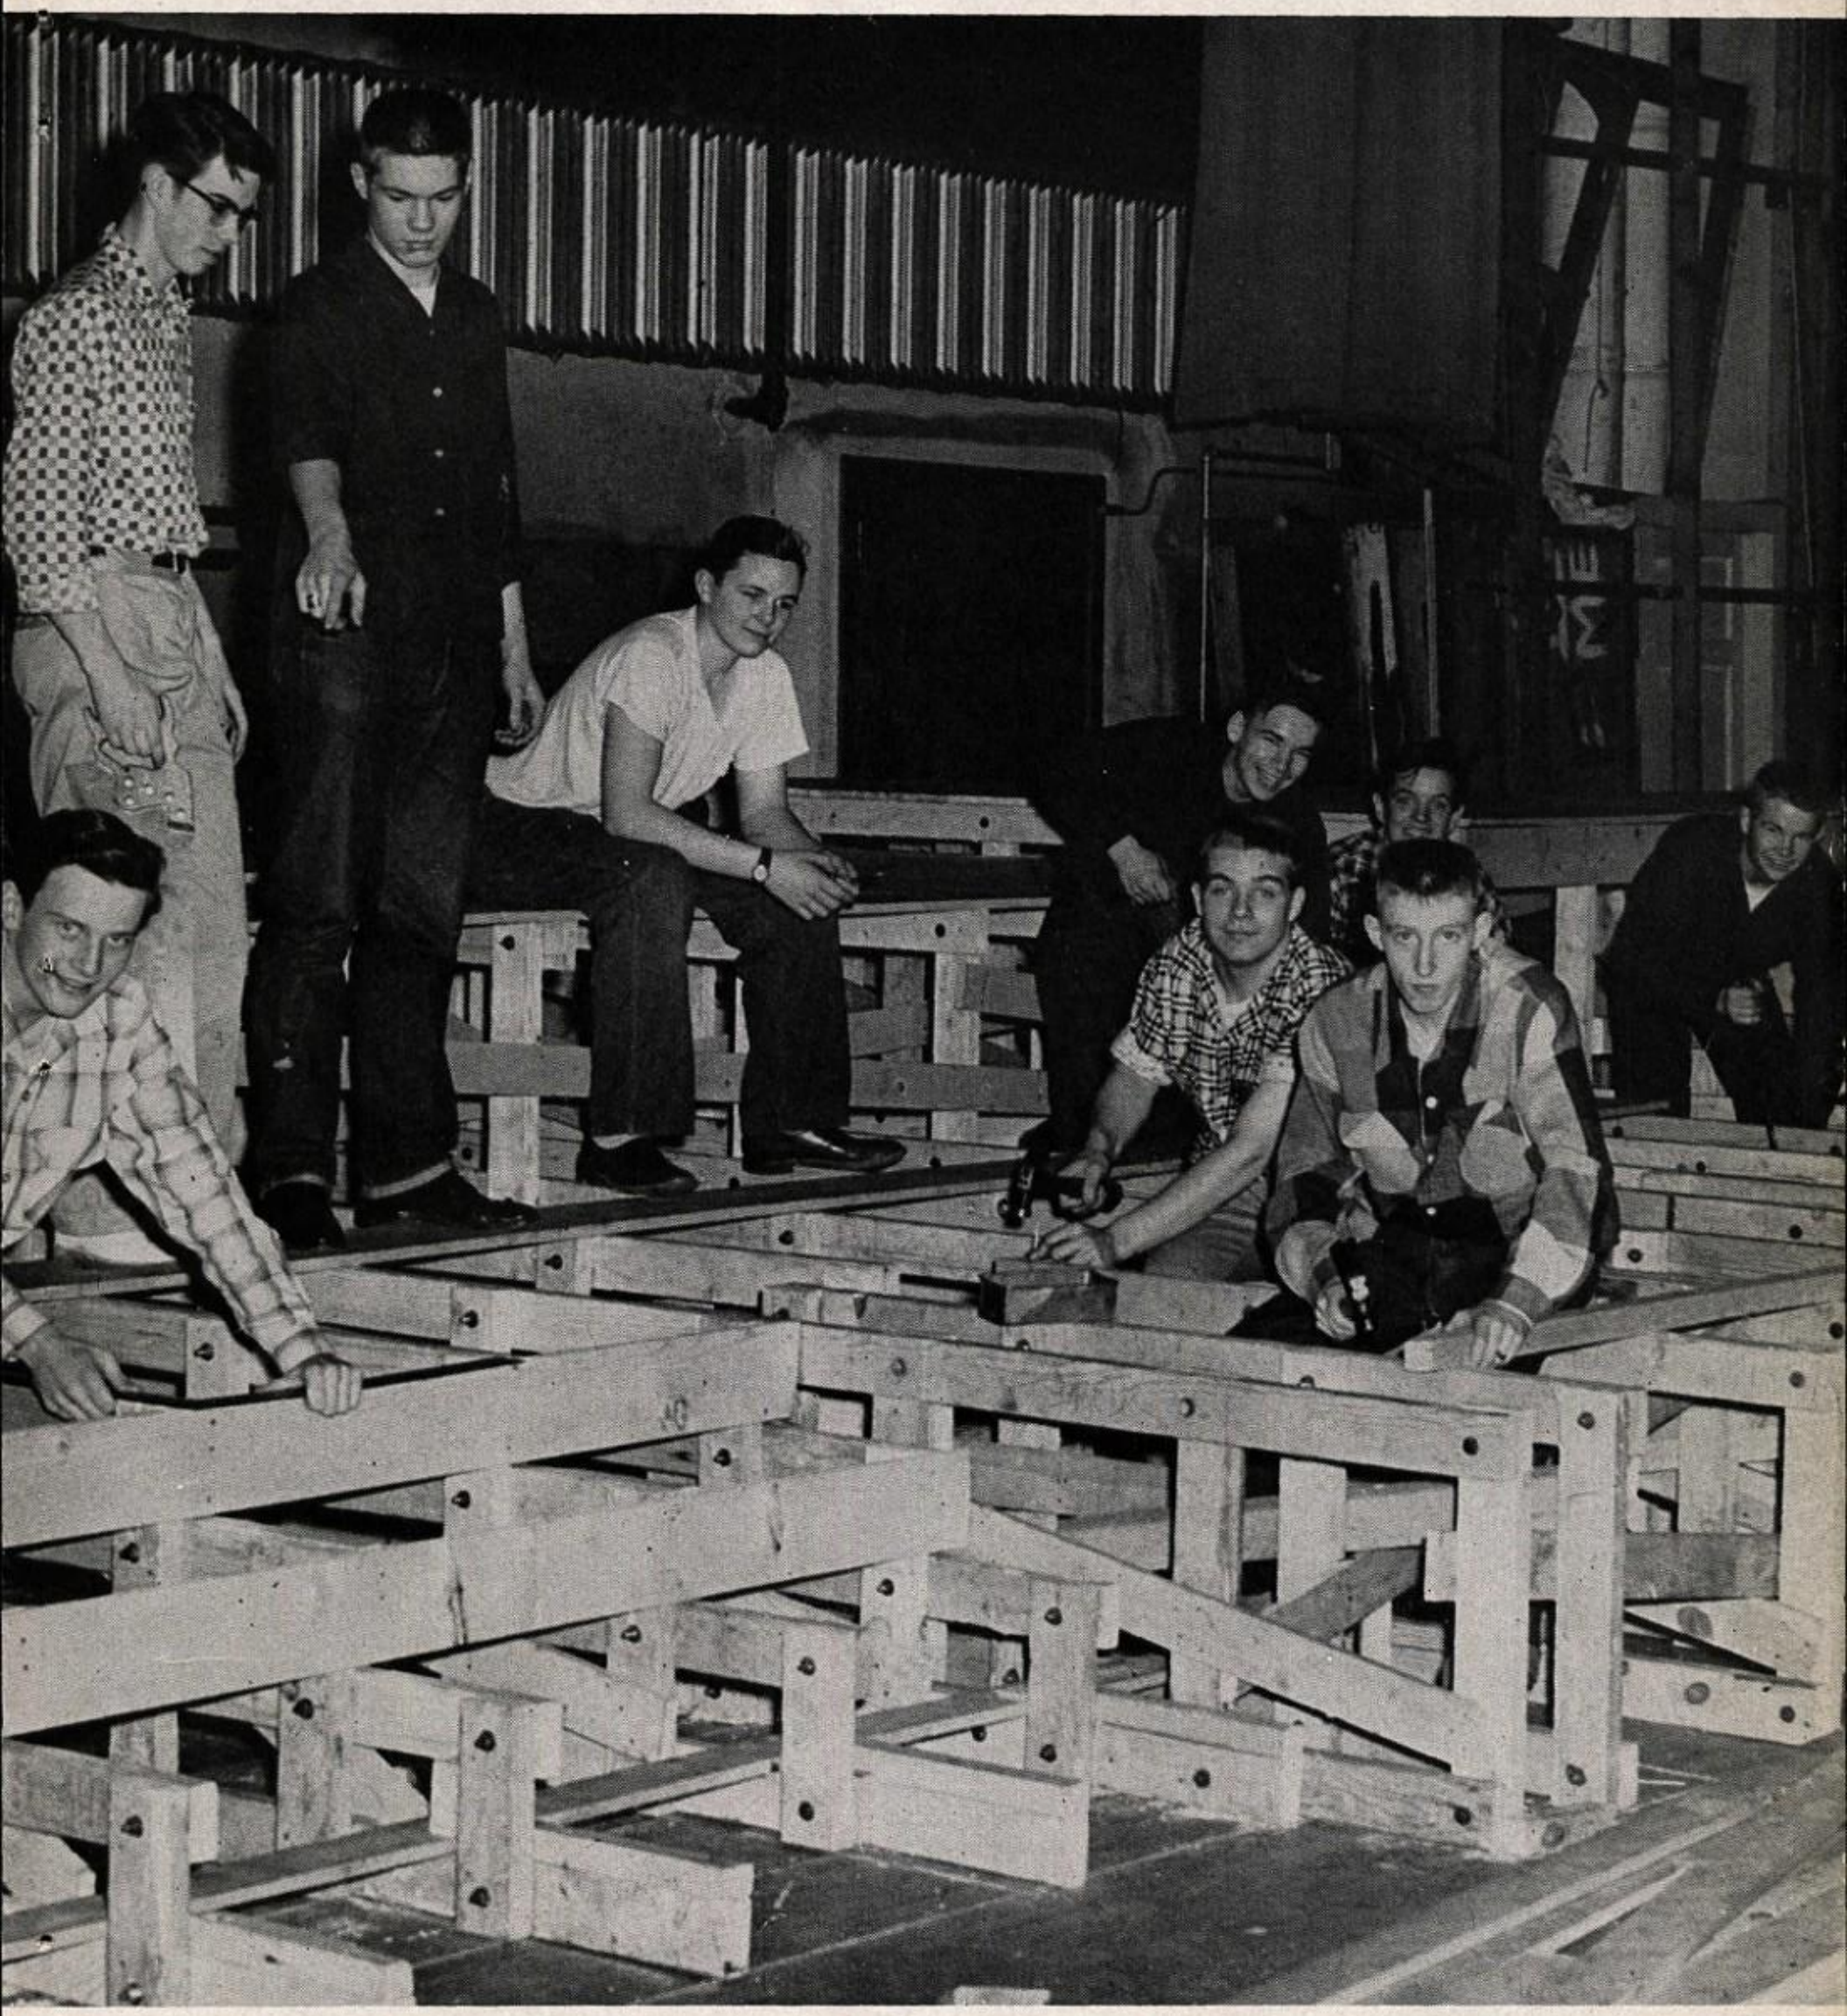
● Time out for a snack!! Candy sales at games always draw the hungry.

● "I Want to Be Happy" sang the finale chorus as they concluded another memorable performance.

In the beginning . . .

Just as actors experience a few moments of stage fright, so did more than four hundred sophomores on the day school opened this fall. Feeling a bit bewildered by the unfamiliar surroundings, but still enthusiastic, they faced the year with anticipation. In the same way the stage crew builds a firm foundation for the more spectacular performance to follow, sophomores need to build a strong background for the years ahead.

In this section we present sophomores, faculty and fall activities.



Sophomores Study New Roles

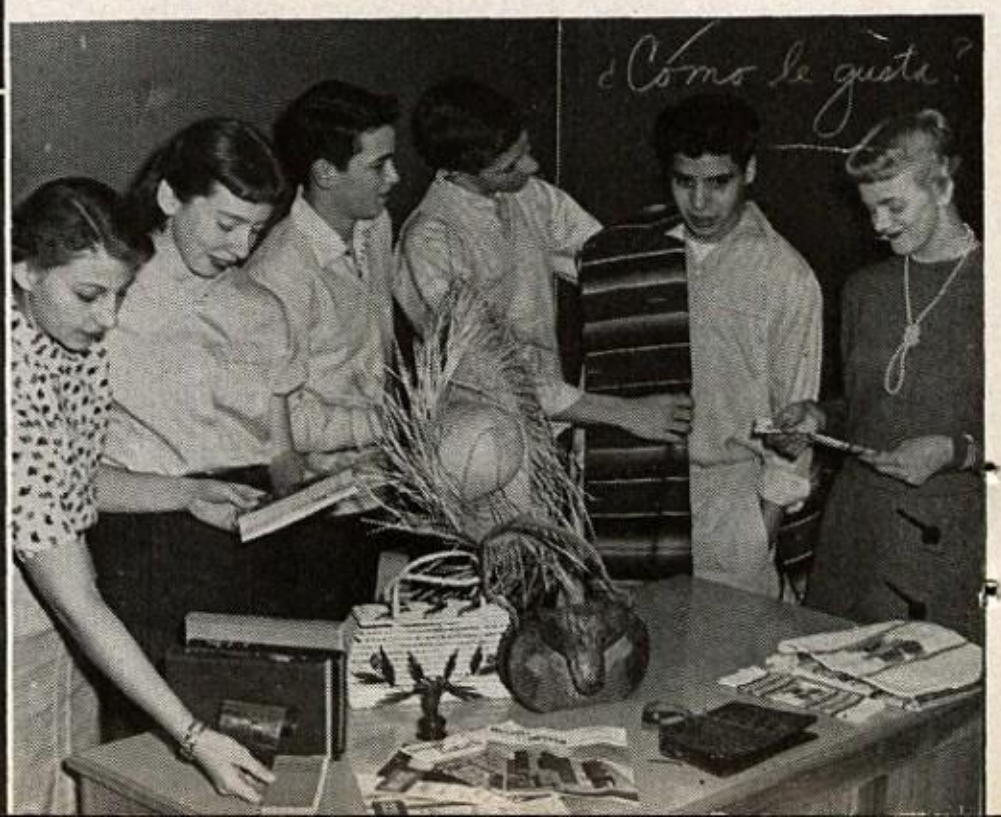
Your Guide to East High, a booklet planned by the orientation committee and printed by the print shop for the sophomores, contains helpful information about the building, scheduling and activities. A. Holdiman studies her copy to be in-the-know on life at East.

In our world history classes, we gain a better understanding of the world today by studying the ancient civilizations. L. Andreassen, M. Venter, J. Wyborny and A. Baker combine their notes and ideas to present an interesting and informative panel discussion.

Neatness and accuracy are the requirements of a good draftsman. B. Jenney concentrates on transferring a measurement from the book to a plate.

Sophomores gain practice in reading, writing, speaking and listening activities in English classes. The varied program includes getting acquainted with the facilities of the East High library. One of the most important features was the card catalog. R. Potter, L. Miller, M. Venter and J. Wyborny are shown taking advantage of their newly acquired knowledge.

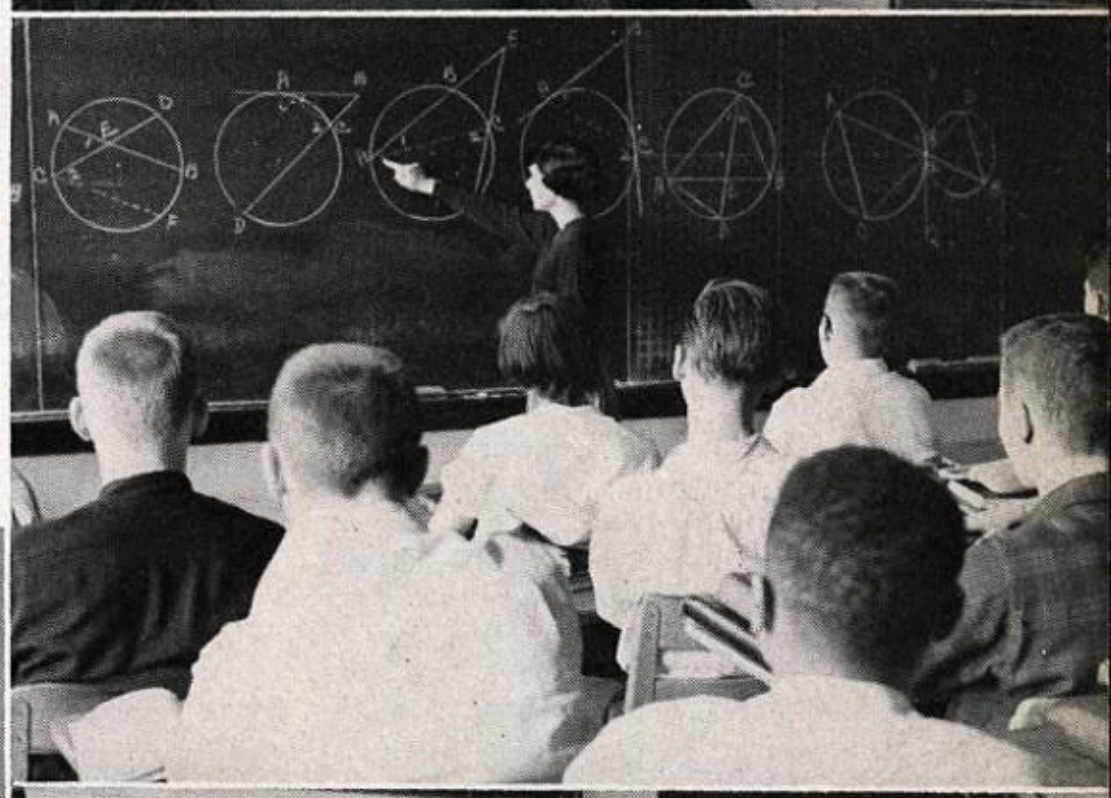
Spanish classes not only learn the language but also receive a knowledge of foreign culture. Admiring the Mexican souvenirs and studying the Spanish books are S. Ferch, K. Sheeley, G. Case, A. Baker, J. Tovar and B. Denning.



Classes Broaden Understandings

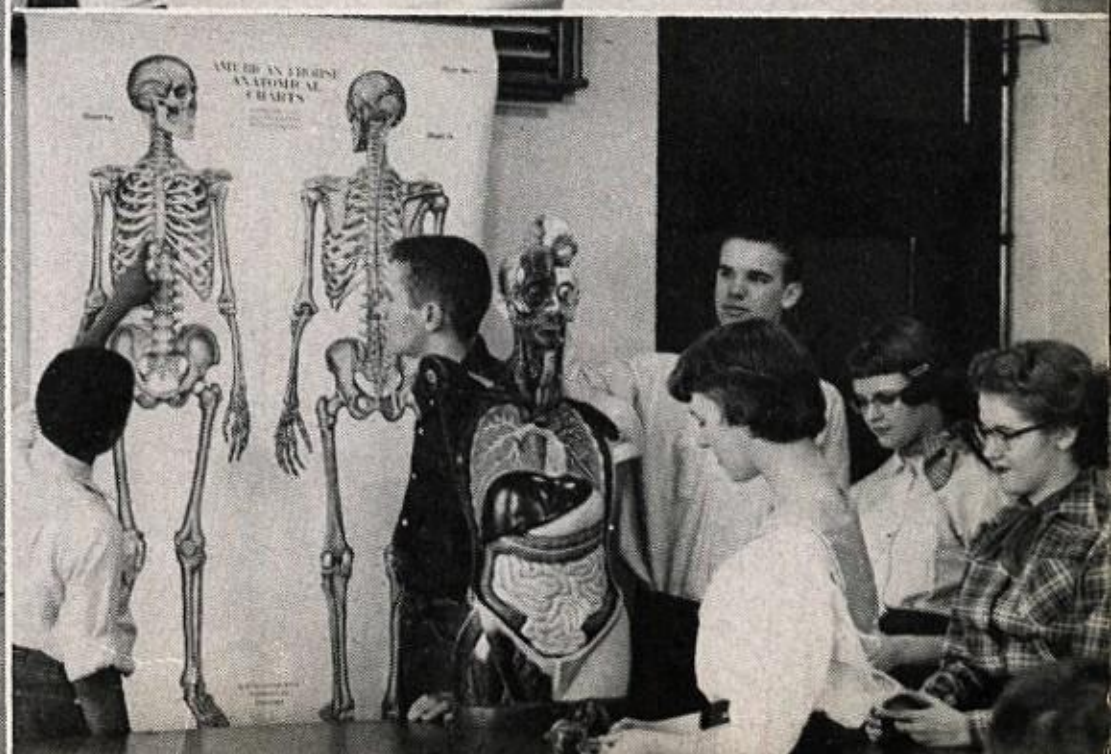
The main project of the Caesar class was to write and publish a bulletin for the Iowa Junior Classical League. R. Haughton, J. Bingham and J. Armstrong, officers of East's Latin Club, proofread the first copy.

Many sophomores take advantage of geometry, an ancient study, which emphasizes reasoning and logical thinking. D. Artus proves one of the theorems on circles while the remainder of the class follow her explanation.



By using Alouysius and his two cousins on the chart, E. Cunningham, J. Cherry, D. Granneman, C. Sheridan, J. Eyestone and Betty Clendennen learn more of the complex structure of the human body.

Although the main objective of the bookkeeping classes is to practice keeping business records neatly and accurately, the students also learn the basis for filing income tax returns. Here J. Williamson figures how much tax she has to pay.



Practice Makes Perfect

One of the first things we learn at East High is how to empty the building quickly and safely in case of fire. Chief Ray Tiller and Lt. D. C. Dobson presented an auditorium emphasizing fire prevention, during which they staged a fire drill to test our time in getting out of the building.

Behind the Scenes

Among the "unsung heroes" at East are the custodians, cooks and the nurse, who really have a great deal to do with making our school days pleasant.

In addition to their regular duties of efficiently maintaining the school, the custodians are always ready to help open jammed lockers or unlock doors for a student to retrieve a lost book.

Mrs. Mamie Larson and Mrs. Freda Manahl keep Eastonians who eat in the cafeteria well nourished with the appetizing menus they offer each noon.

Very essential to the comforts of students in time of illness or injury is Mrs. Juanita Lininger, the school nurse. Her prompt attention and cheerful encouragement assure students that their health needs are an important consideration.

Early morning arrivals at East are familiar with the daily flag-raising. Promptly at eight o'clock each morning custodian Elton Bly raises the stars and stripes as a symbol of the democracy which provides our free education.

Here nurse Juanita Lininger bandages the finger of student G. Loy, who came to her office for first aid.

Satisfying the hungry appetites of approximately 450 Eastonians each noon hour are friendly Mrs. Mamie Larson and Mrs. Freda Manahl.

William Schoof, Virgil Steele, Elton Bly, Howard Sandergard and Ray Cornelius take a breather from the stint of winter shoveling.

Speaking at the auditorium honoring East graduates was Tom Lind, former athletic director. On the platform for the event are B. Bernett, student council vice-president; B. Baker, homecoming co-chairman; Principal Charles Hoffman; Tom Lind, speaker; B. Booher, homecoming co-chairman; and S. Gordish, social committee chairman.

Homecoming Scores Victory

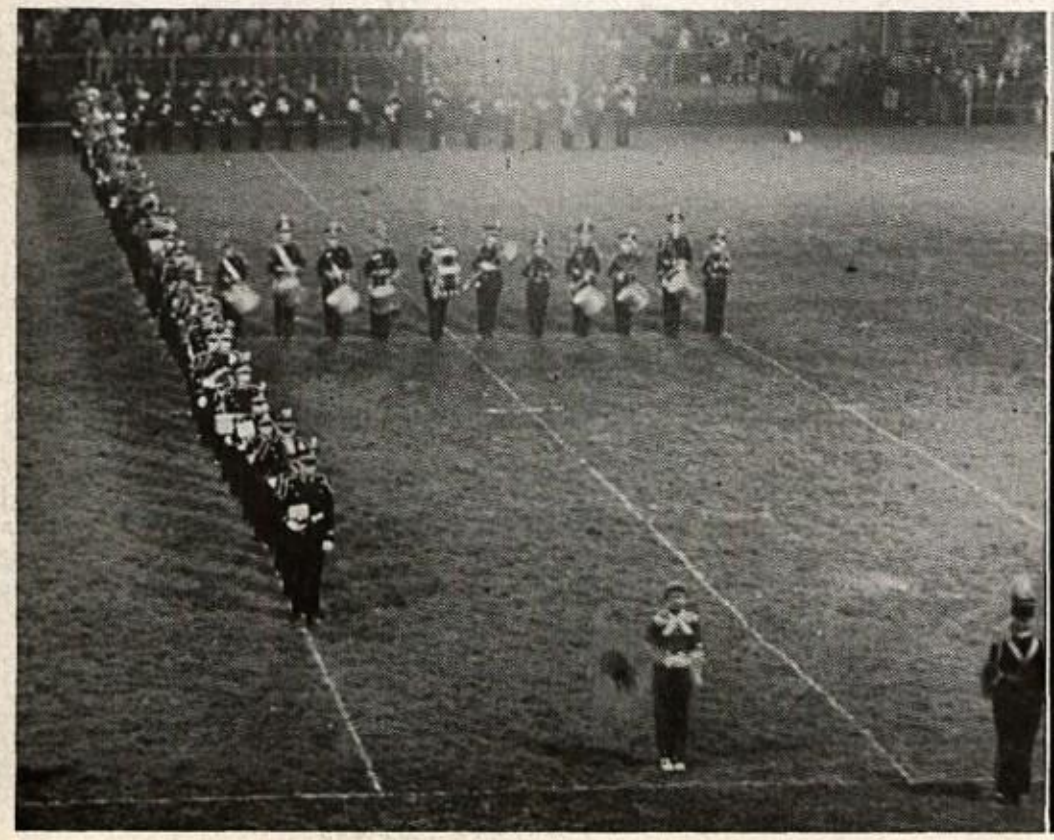
Homecoming committee, under the direction of co-chairman Barbara Baker and Bob Booher, combined their ideas to select the theme Victory. The alumni, welcomed by an appointed group, were honored in the special auditorium and cheered the team on to victory.

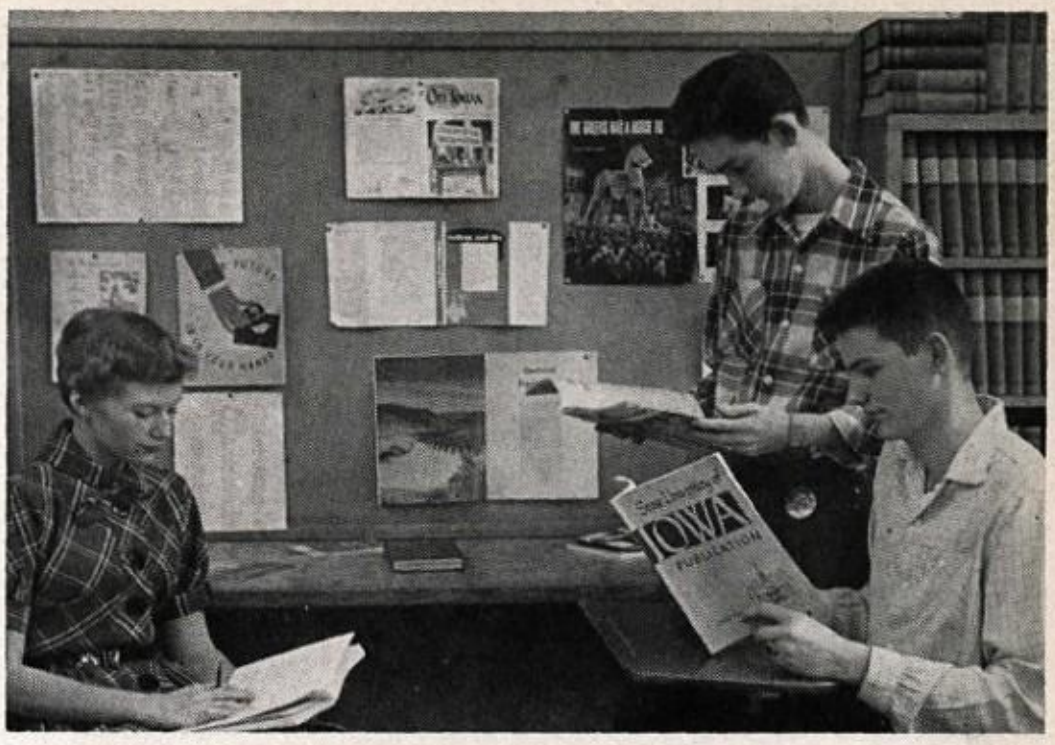
Guest speaker Tom Lind, former athletic director, urged students to live up to East's tradition. Following the auditorium the alumni, seniors and faculty attended a tea in the little theater under the sponsorship of the social committee.

Above: Members of the homecoming committee spent long hours beautifying the halls with colorful orange and black streamers for the annual event.

Below: In keeping with the tradition, the band forms an F honoring our rival, Fort Dodge.

Alumni, faculty and seniors have a chance to renew acquaintances during the homecoming tea.





In preparation for College Day, J. Strohm, B. Walsh and L. Nield thumb through catalogs to get acquainted with the offerings of various schools.

Conferences with representatives from Iowa State Teachers College answer many questions for students who wish to enroll at Cedar Falls.

Focus on College

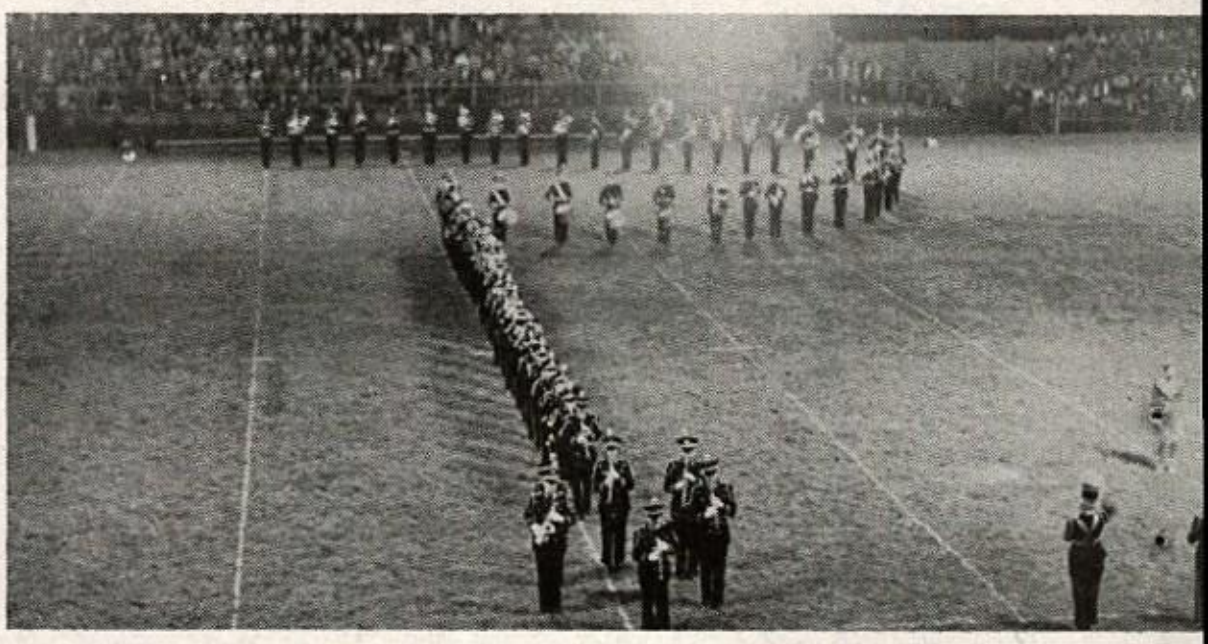
The third annual College Day activities featured discussion groups with representatives from thirteen Iowa colleges. Juniors and seniors had a chance to ask questions about problems that going to college brings. Interested parents came in the evening for discussion groups.

Juniors get an early start with their college plans through the discussion period set up for them to talk over their problems with the visiting counselors.

Vice-principal Garlock and East grads Dorothy Dravis and Dick Johnson answer questions about the adjustment between high school and college at an auditorium for prospective college-goers.

In bright new outfits, the orange girls contributed to the success of half-time shows with clever pantomimes and snappy routines. They include S. Musgrove, C. Breckenfelder, D. Musgrove, C. Reints, A. Baker and R. Gautney.

On Field And Stage



MARCHING BAND

In keeping with "What's My Line?", the East High marching band forms a question mark. Playing "Who?", they pay tribute to Jack M. Logan, superintendent of schools. Led by Janice Adams and Sandra Zegarac, drum majors, the band presented half time shows for the home football games and also took a band trip to Marshalltown, where they presented a show.

CONCERT BAND

Front Row: S. Sackett, E. Bercier, V. Summy, M. Brewer, W. Rasmussen, R. Haughton.
Second Row: M. Stumme, L. Westendorf, J. Wyborny, G. Allee, B. Fernau, A. Nordbrock, R. Boggs.

Fifth Row: L. Anderson, R. Hastings, C. Bingaman, J. Bela, J. Henninger, M. Long, R. Boller, B. Morgan.

The cheerleaders and orange girls generate enthusiasm in auditoriums as well as at games. From the sidelines the cheerleaders are eagerly awaiting a score.

Under the direction of James Gordon the concert band presented a Christmas program and a Pops Concert. On May 6 the East and West bands combined under Robert Lowry, director at Morningside College, to present one of several programs during the Music Festival.

CHEERLEADERS

Sparkling smiles captivate the crowd as the sextet of cheerleaders encourages our teams on to victory. They include C. Brown, J. Speicher, S. Bothun, N. Bender, J. Vich and C. Kemmerer.

Gridsters Provide Tough Competition

The Trojan gridmen opened the season with hopes of retaining the Big Six crown.

A siege of oddities started with the Dubuque game, when a last quarter pass gave Dubuque a 14-14 tie with the Trojans, who had led throughout the game. In the final seconds of the last quarter of the East Des Moines game a pass blocked by two East defenders fell into the arms of a Scarlet player on the goal line. This touchdown and the extra point gave East a 13-12 defeat and dimmed the hopes of regaining the conference crown.

Homecoming also was the scene of an upset as the Trojans, trailing 16-0, rallied to a 19-18 win over Fort Dodge.

Sophs Begin Grid Career

Sophomore gridsters began their high school careers in a somewhat discouraging manner with defeats by the Ackley varsity, 19-0, and by West, 33-6 and 14-13. Games with Tama and Marshalltown were scheduled, but cancelled. The sophs scrimmaged East's varsity-reserves and according to Coach Elvin Goodvin, "We came out on top three times to their one."

Assisting Coach Goodvin throughout the season was Murray Wier. The efforts of these two men helped some forty East sophomores prepare for their varsity careers.

Thespians Before Spotlights, Cameras

Thespians find crew activity as important as footlight appearances. Here L. Nield, L. Furgerson and J. Andrews operate the sound equipment for Swing Show.

D. Kelsen and J. Edsill dramatize a misinformed attitude on the "Warning Signal" TV program. L. Nield, operator of the warning signal device, and director K. Anderson stand by to switch the program to the panel for discussion. East casts appeared on 17 "School of the Air" programs.

. . . With varied talents

Whatever our interests are—music, sports, dramatics or books—we learn that the drama of our high school days is a success only if we develop our individual talents and learn to appreciate the talents of others. Just as a successful show combines the ingenuity of artists, dancers and musicians working together, so does our cooperation with others in school affairs create memorable accomplishments.

In this section, we record the events of the juniors and winter activities.

Juniors Discover

The dictionary is a familiar reference for these nine top ranking students in the junior class.
Front Row: C. Stone, C. Brown, C. Kemmerer, D. Miller.
Second Row: B. Shelton, J. Sims, R. Boyles, J. Adams, J. Speicher.

In the junior year students have an opportunity to broaden interests by making a selection of courses from a wider variety of offerings. With future vocations in mind they continue studies for college preparatory work or practice skills in the business and industrial fields.

Juniors have taken leadership responsibilities in many activities and have bolstered the morale in publications, music and sports.

Working to get their portion of the eight-page paper completed are C. Brown, J. Patterson, D. Miller, D. Ruffcorn from the journalism class.

Proving that the culture of America is the result of contributions of many races and nationalities, these American literature students find the locale of the novels they are reading.

Students in chemistry class produce hydrogen sulfide gas and wonder what their results will be.

We Make Decisions

With meeting dates scheduled for the second and fourth Thursdays, junior council served as a co-ordinating group for activities of the junior class. Two members represented each homeroom.

The major work of the junior council was to plan the junior-senior prom. With junior council members as chairmen and other junior students as assistants, seven committees carried out all the duties necessary to make the prom on May 27 a social success.

We Practice Democracy

As the democratic governing body of East High School, which creates morale and coordinates school activities, the council has scored a successful year. Lee Furgerson was president, Bill Bernett, vice-president, Carol Lewis, secretary and Sandra Zegarac, treasurer.

The council, which meets every first and third Monday mornings before school and once a month for a two hour session, has completed such projects as stressing cafeteria conduct, working on sophomore auditoriums which emphasized study habits, promoting attendance at school social events and sponsoring welfare drives. Mrs. Evelyn Duvall, youth counselor from Chicago, spent one day at East, under the auspices of the council, conferring with students about their problems.

A unified drive as an innovation in fund collection for welfare agencies grew out of council discussion. Christened Unus Rogans, meaning one asking, the drive was so successful that it is to be continued in succeeding years. Included in this drive were the local United Appeal, TB and Heart Fund, Cancer Drive and the March of Dimes. East students contributed $143.65.

A mood of solemnity prevails as East students present the annual "Nativity" in music and pantomime. This year marked a quarter century of the production which still proves to be one of the most popular spectacles on East's stage.

Vocalists Develop Virtuosity

More than two hundred East High students participated in vocal groups under the direction of Miss Ruth Behrens. Meeting different periods of the day were a capella choir, male chorus, girls' choir, girls' chorus and sophomore mixed chorus.

A cappella choir presented the music for the "Nativity" and combined with the band for a Pops Concert on February 8. They joined the West High choir for the Spring Festival on May 2 and 3. Choir received commendation for their appearance at the Rotary Club with a program of sacred music.

Several small groups were formed, and they have appeared at social events throughout the year. They include madrigal, double-mixed quartet, girls' trios and girls' quintet.

Representing East at the Dorian Festival in Decorah were Howard Voigt, Barbara Wilder, Carol Breckenfelder, Carol Kemmerer and Donna Musgrove.

Hoopsters Score Surprising Season

Shots like this kept spectators on the edge of their seats during the East-West game.

After a rather slow start, the Trojan cagesters turned in a remarkable 14-7 record. With only one returning letterman, they were not regarded as much of a threat to regain the conference title, which they lost two years ago, or defend the district and substate titles, which they had held for two consecutive years.

Although they did not win the Big Six crown, it took two heartbreakers to stop them.

By scoring 34 points against Waverly, sophomore Merrill Siler broke the school individual scoring record of 32 points held by "Whitey" Guild.

Determination, Will to Win Pay Off

N. Hansen tries for another goal as the Trojan hoopsters down Roosevelt of Cedar Rapids 57-53 in the District Basketball Tournament. The Dubuque Rams, who took fourth place in the state tournament, defeated the Trojans 67-57 in the substate tournament.

The sophomore hoopsters zipped through a ten game season with only two defeats. The Little Trojans were piloted by Coach Glenn Wistey the first of the season, but as he retired to private business, Kenneth Ketcham took over to see the sophs through their successful season.

West and Dubuque were the only conquerers of East's "Mighty Mites." The sophs scored a triumph when they defeated West at their second meeting in a 43-42 thriller.

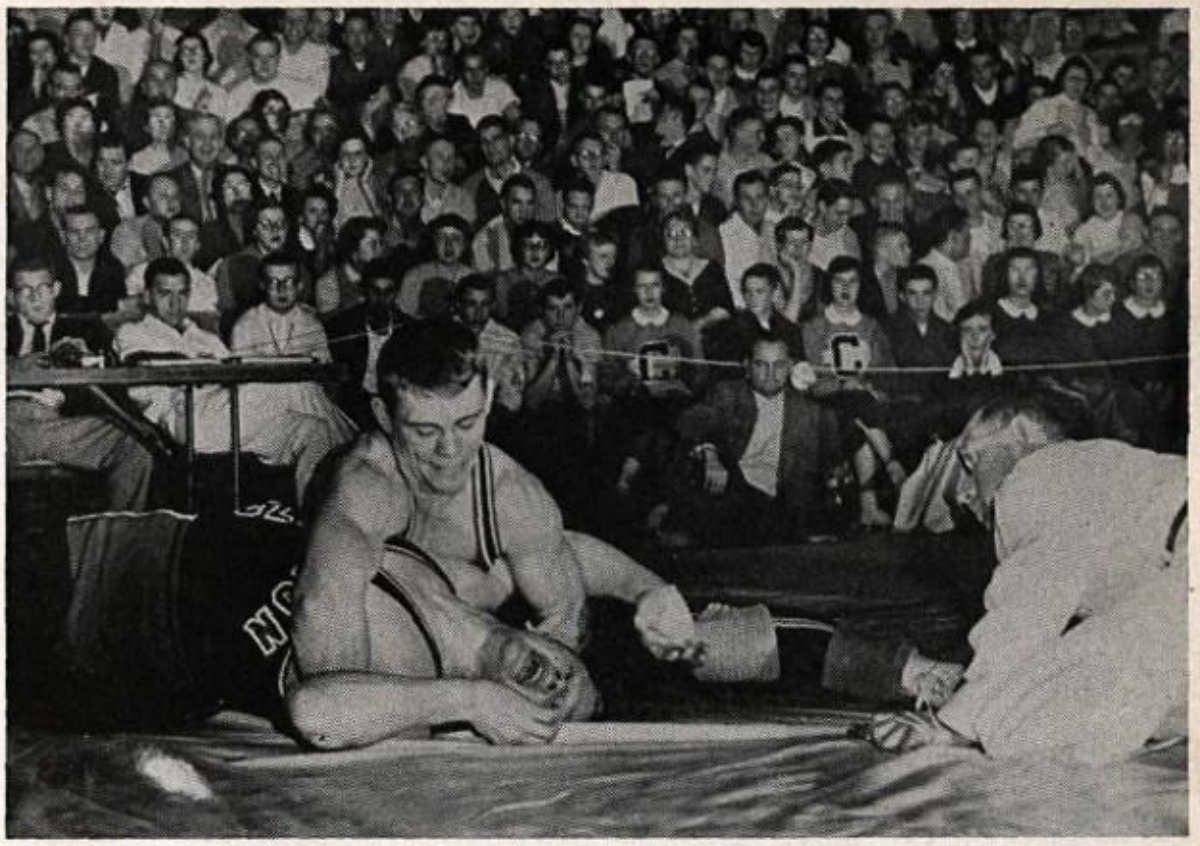
Forty-two Meets Without Defeat



R. Andrews scores a predicament as he defeats L. Anderson of Clarion 5-1 for the 120-pound state championship.

East grapplers completed their third straight undefeated season as they compiled a 10-0-2 record. Romping through a twelve meet season, they amassed a total of 336 points to 109 by opponents. The only blemishes on the record were ties with West, 17-17, and Davenport, 19-19. The tie with West tied the two schools for the Big Six Championship. Both meets turned out to be crowd killers as the outcome of each depended on the final match of the night.

Under the guidance of Coach Dave Natvig, the Trojans took second place in the district tournament behind city rival West. In doing so they set a new record by qualifying nine East grapplers for the state tourney.

The state tournament provided many thrills as East placed five men and finished third behind state champion West and runner-up Davenport. Two matmen, Danny Carey at 95 pounds and Ronnie Andrews at 120 pounds, won state championships. Other grapplers who placed were Charles Patten, fourth at 127; Dic Manley, fourth at 138; and Bill Wright, third at 165.

The graduation of seven senior letter winners marks an important date in East wrestling annals. Each of these seniors has completed a high school career as a member of teams that have never been defeated.

Two East seniors finished their seasons undefeated. They are Noel DeBerg, heavyweight, and Bill Wright, 165. Jim Hibben, 103, Ron Andrews, 120 and Sherwin Everding, 133 suffered one defeat.

By scoring 48 points Noel DeBerg broke the individual scoring record of 42 points which Ken Salyer set in 1953.

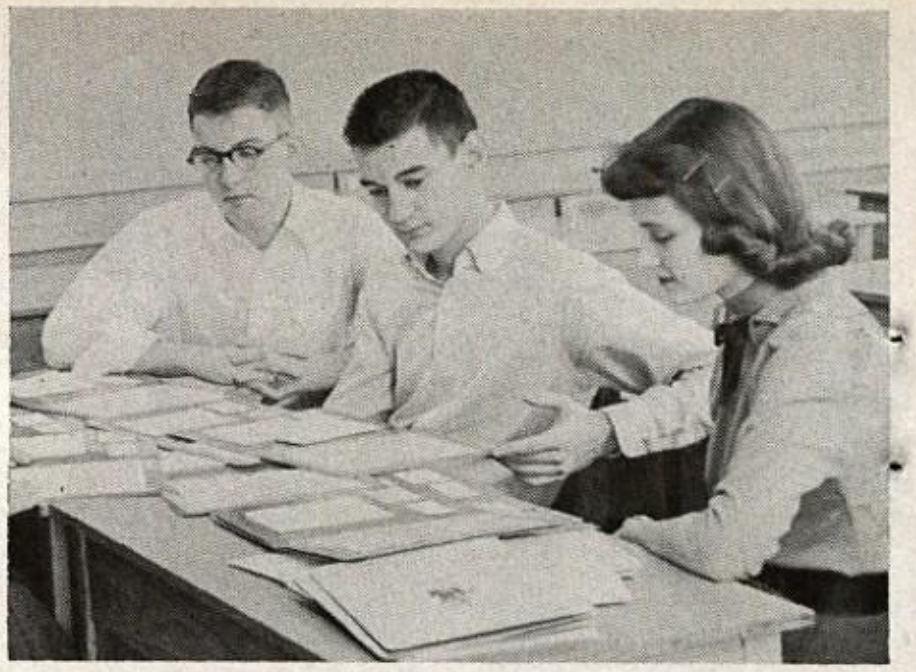
. . . At curtain time

Varied careers unfold before the graduating seniors when the curtain goes up on a new stage after commencement. In the same way that our show cast prepared for opening night, the seniors, through long hours of study and practice, have attempted to perfect many of the skills necessary for successful living.

In this section we record the activities of the seniors and present additional clubs, organizations and spring sports.

Seniors Assume Leadership



Senior class officers select the announcements for graduation. Elected by their classmates, the officers are: A. Courter, president; N. Kalianov, vice-president; J. Halterman, treasurer.

The democratic activity of the council stems from the eight homerooms whose representatives comprise the group. Here M. Kies presents the report of a senior council meeting to her homeroom.

One of S. Zegarac's many duties as secretary of the senior class is writing and duplicating the minutes of the meetings.

When the time arrives that we are exchanging our senior pictures we realize that our high school days are fleeting.

One of the first hints of graduation comes when the committee measures seniors for their caps and gowns. The committee consists of M. Kies, I. Mollenhauer, C. Lewis, S. Fabel, M. McRoberts. Being measured are M. Reasby, J. Kuehl and A. Fink.

Cherish Memories

As one of the features of the health program, all seniors receive the patch test. They also receive individual physical examinations.

Is there anything we will treasure more than the autographs on our annuals? B. Booher, J. Miller and J. Strohm autograph their classmates' annuals. These signatures will bring back pleasant memories many times in the years ahead.

The winners of the '55 Trojan subscription campaign proudly display their reward. J. Henry and D. Fagerlind, of Mr. Lukes' homeroom, decorate the tree for their classmates.

"Here are the best wishes in the books" to a very capable gal. I hope the future "pans out" the way you want it to!
Marguerite Blough

"Scapers"

- Under the direction of J. Henry, the swing band set the pace for the 19th annual Swing Show.

- The 20-girl tap line established a happy mood for the remainder of the show in the opener, "It's a Good Day."

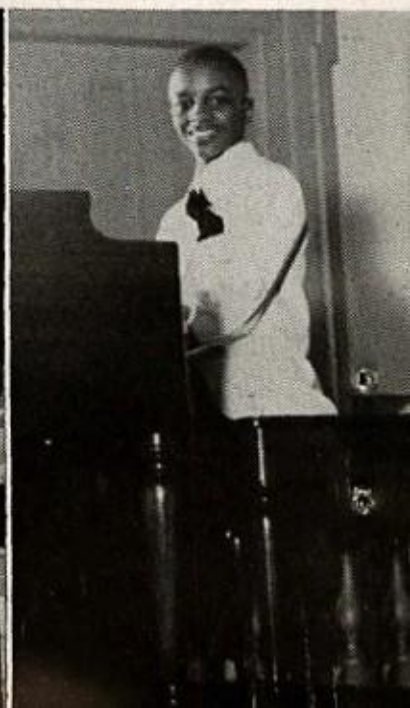
- "The Woodchuck Song" recreated popular tongue twisters.

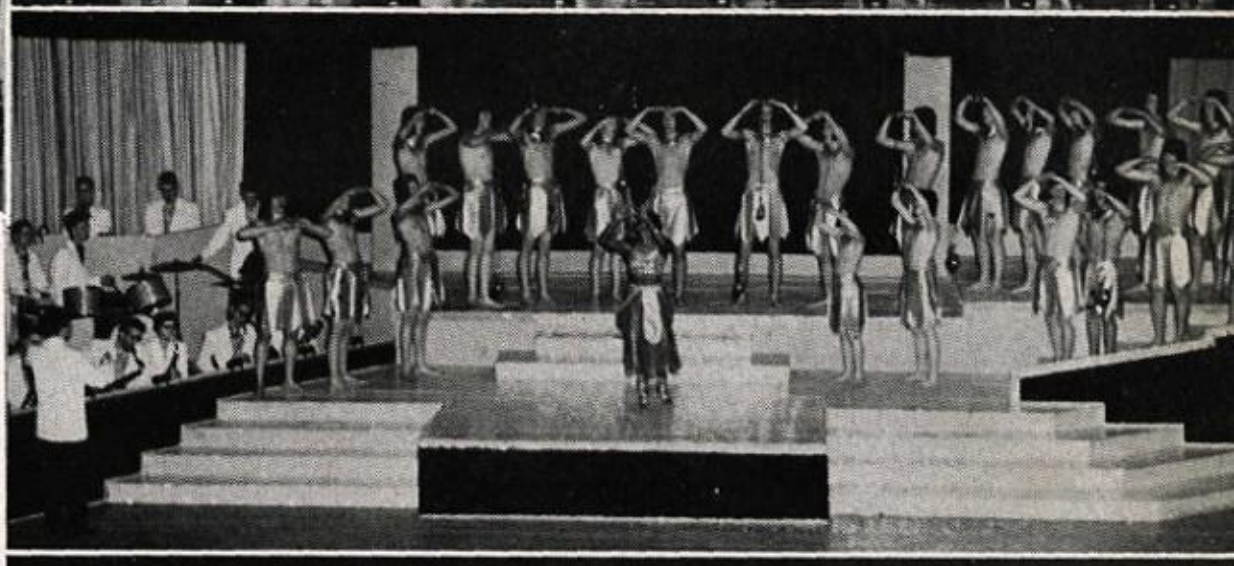
- Accompanied by harmonica soloist Clyde Welch, the tumblers proved their agility.

- Eight couples waltzed gracefully to "Melody of Love."

- As the messengers fulfilled their wishes, D. Miller and D. Musgrove sang about "One Dozen Roses."

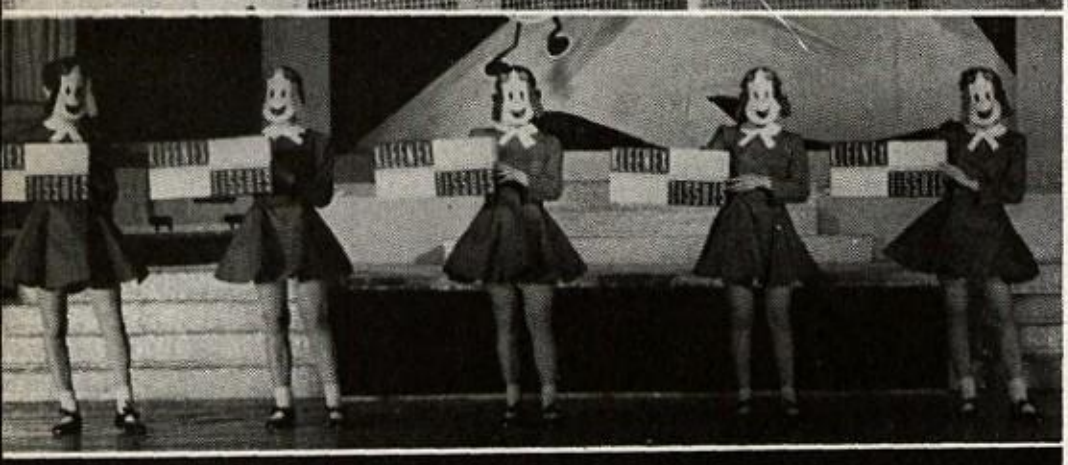
- Wearing his sparkling smile, Billy Anderson captivated the audience with three organ specialties.





Takes Stage

- Swing chorus opened with "It's a Good Day."
- Ventriloquists brought smiles with their dancing dolls.
- Male chorus sang "I Believe" while G. Stinson conveyed the spirit in a solo dance.
- In modern dance eight girls interpreted "Will O' the Wisp."
- With J. Jackson as prophet the Ezekiel chorus evoked a spiritual mood as the finale of the first act.
- C. Kemmerer and C. Breckenfelder took us on a "Grand Tour de l'Amour" with the swing chorus as background.
- Swing chorus gave their version of "Mambo Italiano."
- A. Fink and J. Kuehl pleased the audience with their solos, "Cumana" and "Trombonology."



Colorful Costumes Add Variety

- The cast listens to Principal Hoffman's pre-curtain talk.
- P. Willhite and B. Anderson man the lights.
- With their Little Lulu tap this line brought smiles from the audiences.
- M. Reasby accompanied by a male sextet charmed with "Tweedle Dee."
- In convincing lyrics D. Musgrove and D. Granneman persuaded their hearers that "Gone Fishin" was the sign to hang on the door.
- Dressed in Dutch costumes D. Miller and D. Noble sang "Zing a Little Zong."
- As "Sisters" H. Voigt and D. Granneman provided humor.
- Tap duo R. Laylin and R. Lawson won the audiences in "When My Sugar Walks Down the Street."
- R. Christopherson amazed the crowds with her acrobatics.
- G. Stinson, B. Flowers and T. Carr interpreted the Aztec Sun Dance while D. Anderson played the tom-tom.

Creative Ideas Take Form

These twelve art students are looking at the awards they received in the Scholastic Art competition. Seniors S. McDowell and L. Giffen won gold keys.

Seated: S. McDowell, L. Giffen, J. Andrews, M. Meyne, N. Patterson.

B. Tarkett sketches program covers for the art banquet. Barbara's ink drawings appear in the 1955 Wooden Horse.

The Art Club held its annual fall pot-luck after the demonstration by their guest, Mrs. Thelma Willson, crafts instructor at Logan Junior High School.

Mrs. Willson shows the girls the steps in creating copper jewelry. Making and wearing copper jewelry is a popular revival of an ancient art.

Programs Feature Instrumental Groups

Members of the string quartet are J. Sims, first violin; N. Flieder, second violin; L. Ford, cello; C. Bailey, viola. They have been able to add their talents to the Nativity and to social events of civic groups.

Under the direction of Robert C. Reeves, the orchestra rehearses twice a week. To increase their musical skill they hold sectionals once a week. This year the orchestra made its debut at the fall dramatic event in which it interpeted introduction music and also added mood music between acts. The group played selections in the Pops Concert. It will participate in the annual music festival and commencement exercises.

East is proud to be one of the few schools in Iowa which has a student, K. Dobson, taking harp lessons and playing that instrument in the orchestra.

Spring sports started on the winning side for the Trojan track team as they won their first dual meet in six years by defeating Oelwein. Later they downed West by a one-point margin.

Although the diamondmen lost seven of the first nine games by one or two-run margins, they advanced to the district finals, where they were eliminated by St. Mary's.

Strength in the tennis and golf teams led them to a good season as they proved to be spirited contenders for sports honors.

Sandy, kid. it's Golly. I'd say just hard I'd say all what I feel after all these years! But anyhow, we sure did have fun — we and our good old pollock! Even when we had our little "differences"; we weren't really mad. I'll never forget those wild parties we had and all the jolly times we had at dear ole East. I can't say all I want to, but anyhow, I wish you the best of luck in what ever you do.

Love
Ann

Sandra:

Lots of luck
in everything you do in the following years.

Sandy
Here I wishing
the best of luck,
success and happiness
to a real neat little kid. I hope you have a lot of luck with Jim.
Remember dear ole East High and our parties and especially our little slumber parties. Even though we had our ups and downs we still
(7) pretty sweet friends.
I hope that we can be always and that we can get together often while ole
(7) gray of we will love some terrier.
Will I wonder if we will both be married by sixteen years. I wish
but I hope you are.
See ya!
